2023 Summer Reading

Instructions for Reading Logs

- Set a daily reading goal. For example, you might decide to try reading for 30 minutes every day or to read four chapters every day or to read for 20 minutes and journal for 10 minutes each day. Choose a goal that works for you (or your child). “Read...” can include “listen to an audiobook” or “listen to someone read to me” or whatever works for you or your child.
- Record each time you meet your daily reading goal. We have reading logs you can use, or if you’re feeling creative you can make your own!
- Bring your reading log to the library throughout the summer. You can help the library reach our summer reading goals by adding your achievements to our community reading log. And for every five times you meet your goal, you can select a small prize from our basket and receive one ticket to enter our end-of-summer sweepstakes.
- Bring your final reading log entries in to the library by Tuesday, August 22. The Summer Reading Logs will wrap up & we’ll draw winners for the end-of-summer prizes.

Happy reading!
